

6B Particle dominoes

Particles which modify the meaning of verbs up – I have lots of happy memories.	I didn't do much last weekend, I just hung	around at home watching TV.	I love talking. I can chat away for hours about anything.	I always put my keys	in the same place, so I don't lose them.	I think I need to slow down a bit – my life is so busy these days.	When I have to remember something, I always note	it down , or I'll forget it.	When you don't succeed, it's important to carry on trying until you do.	I've never climbed	up a mountain, but I'd like to try.	I messed around at school. I regret it now.	Yesterday I was working	away , and didn't notice the time until it got dark.	When I visit a new town, I love to walk around and see the sights.	When I was young, I once ran	away from home, but I went back very quickly.	Counting to ten helps me calm down if I get angry.	I'm looking for a job and have sent	out my CV to lots of different companies.	I really liked the place where I grew

6B Particle dominoes

Instructions

You will need: one set of dominoes per pair

- Divide students into pairs. Give one set of dominoes to each pair and ask them to share them out equally.
- One student places a domino face up in front of himself/herself and the other student places one of his/her dominoes at either end of the first domino to complete the sentence. Students take it in turns to put down their dominoes at either end of the chain.
- If a student thinks his/her partner's sentence is not correct (the verbs and the particles don't match), he/she can challenge the other student. If the sentence is incorrect or if a student cannot make a sentence, the turn passes to his/her partner.
- The game continues until one student has used up all his/her dominoes or until neither student can make a correct sentence. The student who finishes first or has the fewest dominoes remaining wins.
